It is widely accepted that the world is experiencing various environmental crises as the result of human activities. This module will orient students to a theological view of humanity's role within creation, and from this perspective turn our attention to specific environmental issues such as overconsumption & conservation, social inequality, and our attitudes toward technology.

- Part of LCT's undergraduate programme in Theology, Ministry and Mission
- Led by LCT's Director of postgraduate study, Caleb Gordon
- This is a lecture-style module with plenty of class discussion
- Weekly reading with no assignments
- Some previous theology study is recommended but not strictly required
- Bursaries available to eligible auditors - Please enquire!
